spend the fourth, and Ida is happy.

Miss Lula Harris carried home the prize, (a lovely card scrap book) given by her teacher for not whispering; she being the only one able to resist the temptation.

No wonder Cora Harris was sick last Wednesday, driving home from Decatur as fast as she did the night before. She had a clock with her, and it only struck off eleven hours on the road. She says that can't be beaten by any of their fast horses.

The school in this district closed last Thürsday, Miss Ella Harris, teacher. She gained the good will and respect of her pupils at the beginning of the term, and held it throughout. That she has been no idle worker may be seen by the rapid progress of all under her instruction. Would it not be

The issue of Harper's Weskiy of March 9, 1861, contained four charicatures of the martyred Lincoln for which the Harper Brothers should still humble themselves in sented him as a cross between a spider, a long-legged monkey, and a man in a Scotch cap, with outstretched arms, long, ungainly strides, month half open, and a face of agonizing fear, striding across the country. The Weekly made a great mistake when it caricatured Abraham Lincoln and gave aid and comfort to southern rebels in 1861. Is it not just as much mistaken in its captious opposition to James G. Blaine and John A. Logan, the gallant standard bearers of the great republican party who are worthy exponenta of that overshadowing and righteous principle of protection to American industry. The stordy, patriotic masses of the north in 1861 kept time to the music of the Union, while Harper's Weekly wandered after strange gods. It soon found that it must submit to the dictation of the Nation's will and to the verdict of mankind. Then it returned to freedom's paths. In this year of our Lord, 1884, while the great and grand republican party has chosen its standard bearers with a unanimity and enthusiasm never before known, and the rank and file are in solid phalanx battling for the advancement of American labor and American industry, Harper's Weekly has taken hold of the tail of the golden calf of the British free trade and is working to place American laborers upon an equality with the poorest paid labor of the world.—Lanking Repub.

"My son, why are the members of the National Democratic Convention at Chicago, like the moon?" "I don't know, Pa, is it because they are bright?" "Oh no, my son, not that." "Is it because-because-because they are about full?" "Krect my boy."

You can do a large washing without any rubbing; use the boiling process instead. You can save Time, Labor, Fuel, Soap and Clothing. DIRECTIONS FOR USE.

Cut up fine and dissolve one half bar in half gallon of hot water. Pour half this dissolved soap into a tub with just sufficient hot water to cover a boiler full of clothes. Then put the clothes in to soak, rubbing plenty of soap in the most soiled parts. Be sure that the soaking water is hot; soak the clothes half an haur; stir them occasionally so that they may get the full benefit of the hot suds; pour the remainder of the dissolved soap into the boiler, and the sufficient water to cover the clothes; wring them lightly out of the suds. Soap the stail near spots and place loosely in the boiler; boil to to 20 minutes, rinse well, blue and hang to dry. Bo not crowd the boiler too full. The same boiling water may be used for furne-boiling by adding a little soap to each boilerfull of clothes. Fannels and prints should not be boiled, only a little rubbing required after soaking. This soap will cleanase clothing thoroughly as any other without the use of the boiler.
